PHONE CO. REFLECTS U. S. STRIKE OFFER

SPURNS PROPOSAL FOR ARBITRATION

The telephone company this afternoon refused the offer of James T. Colony, representative of the United States Department of Labor, to attempt to settle the strike of the operators.

The following statement was issued at the main office:
"Mr. Colony called on General Manager Dwyer today. Mr. Dwyer expressed his appreciation, but said he could see no way in which the company could avail itself of his suggestions."

Neither the mediator nor company heads would make any statement as to what Mr. Colony had proposed. It is generally believed that he suggested the dispute be submitted to an arbitration board.

GOMPERS LASHES HARDING FOR HIS SPEECH ON LABOR

Washington, June 30.—Statements made by President Harding in his labor speech at Helena yesterday were assailed today by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who declared that "labor requires more than a speech to balance against the acts that have come before."
"We believe the President is sincere in not wanting the unions destroyed," said the veteran labor leader. "No sane person could want any such catastrophe."
"But we cannot imagine in any amount of apoplexy over the late profession of faith, because the unions themselves have saved the day and they have done this in spite of the official acts of some of the President's leading officials and advisers. For their existence today they owe no thanks to the administration," said the veteran labor leader.

TO TELEPHONE USERS

In over 90% of our central offices service is being given, wholly unaffected by the strike. In places where some operators obeyed the strike order for the moment and have since returned to work, service is also normal.

In other central offices we have a full quota of operators, but many of these are new to the work. In a few offices we have less than a normal quota of operators, and of these a part are inexperienced. They are giving to the public the best service which their experience permits and are doing it with a splendid enthusiasm.

With these facts in mind we believe that you will be as patient as possible with our new operators, who are doing a surprisingly good job, and that you will not increase the use of your telephone faster than their ability develops.

"O Tempora!" Dempsey
Cries
Watch Money. It Knows
Two Ladies That Killed
They Ate the Girl
 By Arthur Brisbane

YOU ASK what this country is coming to and whether have vanished patriotism, pride, ambition, when you learn that there is difficulty in fitting the third installment of $100,000 that Mr. Dempsey must have before he enters the prize ring at Shelby.

Mr. Dempsey exclaims: "O tempora, O mores, I wish Chicago were here to write about this job." You can't help sympathizing with him.

THEY ARE not happy in Europe. They don't trust each other, and with one or two exceptions, don't trust themselves.

Follow their money and you know something. It is seriously wrong. British money yesterday went to a point lower than any this year. The money of solid, reliable Switzerland did the same. German money dropped a little nearer to absolute zero. It's a good time, Mr. President, not to be mixed up in the affairs of Europe.

TO STUDY human nature, study murder cases and juries. Two ladies killed two persons. One, Mrs. Clark, was not married to the man, somebody else was married to him. She is quite young, good looking. The jury convicted her of murder in the first degree. The foreman had gone to church and prayed every day for guidance, an unusual touch.

MRS. LONGERAG shot her husband, father of her fourteen children. He had left them, squandered six thousand dollars belonging to one of the children, beat his wife when she asked him to help the family.

Mrs. Longerag also is still young, but thin and worn. All of the jury said: "You are innocent," and everybody in the court room cheered. The jury system is not a bad system.

THE NEXT question is about Mrs. Buzzi. She killed a man, presumably in a fit of jealousy. Will the State of New York, which hasn't the excuse of jealousy, initiate Mrs. Buzzi and kill Mrs. Buzzi by electricity, thus putting itself in her class morally.

A TRAVELLER from the Fiji Islands describes the cannibalism of two young savages. They quarreled about a girl. They had both seen the girl, and they had both seen her on her. Instead of fighting each other, which they thought foolish, they decided to eat the girl. They actually did kill and eat her. The police found her head, and they are in jail.

"HORRIBLE, unthinkable, unbelievable in this age of the world," you say. Horrible, yes; unthinkable, no. Here in our own sweet civilization you read today of bootleggers holding up a living child to stop the bullets of their pursuers. That's as bad as the cannibals. And those cannibals have an excuse—their ancestors did it.

NEW YORK CITY will have 2,000,000 people in 1930. Statistics prove it. What then will be the limit of real estate values? What will solve traffic congestion?

How many millions will Chicago, Detroit and other cities have in forty years?

How long before cities will install as part of their regular street equipment great exhaust fans to collect and carry away deadly gases from automobiles?

That last question is suggested by Dr. M. Charles Gottschaldt, a wise person.

"B" CAREFUL how you gamble in little steel companies, trying to fight big company. Whenever it likes, the big company can sell steel at a good profit for less than it costs little companies to manufacture.

That, printed here several years ago, has been repeated at least three times. Look at some of the "little steel companies," if you gamble in steel stocks, and you will find that the advice wasn't bad. "New low" describe them.

Give Lie to Charge by Hayes

FRED A. TINDLEY.
 He demands $10,000 of Haynes' chief for false arrest.

Boston, June 29.—Frank A. Haynes and A. William O'Brien, heavily armed men who were with Chief "Lightning Jack" Hayes when he wounded two occupants of a car in North Berwick, today contradicted important points in Chief Hayes' testimony in Maine court.

Frank O'Brien of Maine, charged with speeding, driving without a license and failure to stop, was giving different facts than were given by Chief Hayes when they were traveling twenty-five to thirty miles an hour.

One of the two witnesses was not hugging on the front seat of the car, as charged by Chief Hayes.

TIMOTHY NAILLED.
 Attorney Michael E. Sullivan, counsel for Haynes, nailed the testimony of Officer James C. Bolander that he found the road searched as by the tires of a machine traveling at a high speed when officers compelled him to admit that he did not examine the road for twenty miles.

John H. Whitman, wounded at the same time O'Brien was shot, was in court and testified, very calmly and with a steady voice, that after the car had been stopped, Chief Hayes asked an officer if he had shot.

Chief Hayes asked that he went with the chief the night of the shooting to see what the chief did when he stopped the car.

TINDLEY HAS EVIDENCE.
 Fred A. Tindley, having newspaper men, declined until a statement of Officers James Bolander, who brought suit for $10,000 damages against Chief Hayes for false arrest.

Tindley says he remembers the first time he saw the car, it was a 1928 Buick, and he saw it at the scene of the shooting.

He was arrested by Hayes, examined by Hayes' physician, and taken to the hospital. He was then taken to the County Jail and later to the County Jail.

Haynes' attorney moved for an appeal and bond of $100 was fixed, the case going over to the September term of the superior court. It is expected the case will be carried to the state supreme court.

Attempt to Wreck Cars Carrying Soldiers to Sydney, Where Rioting Breaks Out
 Toronto, June 29.—A squadron of Royal Canadian dragoons from Stanley Barracks and Niagara Camp, with three companies of the Royal Canadian Regiment, from London, Long Beach and Niagara, returned today for the steel strike areas near Sydney, N. S.

SYDNEY, N. S., June 30.—An attempt to wreck the railway train which early today brought troops from Halifax to prevent a recurrence of last night rioting among striking employees of the British Empire Steel Corporation was discovered at about the main line of the Canadian Northern Railway, describing the plot, and instructing employees to watch for the safety of other troops.

The strikers were dissatisfied by their leaders from massing at the railway station and attacking the soldiers. The mob broke up after five minutes of rioting.

Mike Rowat, a striker, is in the hospital in a critical condition. The police rushed to the spot in motor cars. After two hours of rioting, the strikers evacuated the yard and began a similar raid on the coke ovens plant opposite.

Property damage was slight. The strikers asserting they were not bent on sabotage but wanted money to "clean out the strike-breakers." Company officials, however, pointed out the rioters might do serious damage to the delicate equipment of the coke plant.

The strikers demand an eight-hour day, twenty per cent increase in wages, and no more work on Sunday days. Company officials said they had made only 1,000 of the 3,000 men employed had remained at work.

Father Said to Have Been Satisfied With the Swap: Received Horse and Clothes
 Syracuse, N. Y., June 30 (U.S.).—Two girls and a boy were sold in bondage, body and soul, in the back woods of Cortland county, in return for which the father received a horse, two calves and a shirt, overalls and a pair of shoes, county authorities announced today.

The mother was presented with a new dress and $1.36 in cash for her portion of the "swap."

James Thompson, 23 years old, his sister Mollie, 15, and the brother, Howard, 16, were received by County officials who discovered the strange bargain by which the children were sold into slavery.

The purchase of the trio, George Shaw, 42 years old, a farmer from Chenango, was ordered held for the grand jury without had after warning examination on arraignment on serious charges.

In his cell at the County Jail, Shaw denied buying the girls and boy from their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Thompson, and charged a plot to kidnap him out of his home.

AMERICAN LIFEGUARDS FIGHT FOR MORE LIFE GUARDS AT BEACHES

PROTECT TO PROTECT

Boston American's Report on Conditions Brings Action by Officials

By HARRY A. BENWELL.

The Boston American's drive for more lifeguards at Municipal beaches has been crowned with success.

Deputy Park Commissioner William P. Long has ordered additional men placed on duty at all the beaches where a shortage existed.

He has assured the public, through the American, that all the beaches will be adequately protected in the future.

NEW APPOINTMENTS.

A short time after this edition of the American was sent through the first of the appointments for beach work, consisting of a swimming instructor, a lifeguard and two matrons.

Other appointments will be sent through by the mayor as soon as the names are received from Deputy Commissioner Long.

One of the new lifeguards will enter Brandway Beach, South Boston, a mile and a half strip which has had no protection of any kind in the past.

Commissioner Long declared he will attempt to obtain the removal of all six-hour lifeguards, armed with authority to prevent children from bathing when the bath-houses are closed.

In this way a repetition of the drowning of Allen Greenough, nine-year-old Dorchester boy, will be prevented.

Young Greenough was drowned off private property adjoining "Swan Beach," where the lifeguard was off duty.

ACT PROMPTLY.

Mayor Curley and Deputy Commissioner Long acted promptly after the dangerous shortage of lifeguards had been called to their attention.

The Mayor had previously given orders to place at least four lifeguards on the beaches, but hitherto it has not been the custom to send them on duty.

As the result of the publicity given conditions by the Boston American, there are now ten lifeguards instead of one at Tenean, Fenwick street, South Hill, Wood Island Park, South End Park and Dewey beaches.

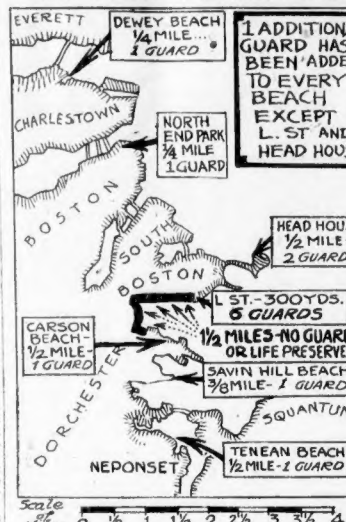

These men will protect the bathers during the day, but if the lifeguard is absent, there will be no lifeguard on duty during the hours of low water.

This action was taken, not because of any criticism, direct or indirect, of the original force of lifeguards, but solely because of the six-hour rule.

Under the regulations which have been in force for many years, the majority of the municipal bath-houses have been opened only three hours before full tide and three hours after.

The lifeguards, who obtained their positions only after passing severe examinations, were withdrawn from the beaches where the bath-houses were closed, and the public warned not to attempt to swim.

KIDDIES PROTECTED AT HUB BEACHES.

ADDITIONAL GUARDS POSTED

City authorities were prompt to act as soon as the Boston American pointed out the need for additional protection to the thousands of bathers.

who have the authority to prevent the use of the beaches when bath-houses are closed. The lifeguards are not such authority. It is simply that we have followed the custom of years and left the beaches unguarded at low water."

JUROR IN THEFT CASE ARRESTED

of the E. & A. Railroad.

Griffin is accused of theft of 114 suits valued at $254, which were played as a receiving clerk for the railroad at freight house No. 2 on Albany street. The shoes were on route to California from the Western shoe co. of Hottelton.

Griffin is alleged to have stolen the shoes and turned them over to lawyers to sell. The latter already have been apprehended.

The fact that Griffin was warned on the theft charge was not learned until after he had been selected as a member of the jury which heard the telephone robbery case. While he was serving on the jury he was in custody from arrest.

The action against Griffin is independent of the investigation into the jewelry store he is considered possible that it may have ramifications which will bear on that investigation.

PETERS' PARENTS CALLED IN PROBE

Haverhill, June 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Elvidge O. Peters, parents of Clarence O. Peters, victim in the famous Ward slaying in Westchester county, New York, have been notified to appear before the extraordinary grand jury investigating the killing.

Peters was shot to death by Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire banker. Mr. and Mrs. Peters will appear as witnesses some time next week.

Their attorney, Frederick H. Magdon, was notified by telephone by Attorney General Sherman of New York that the parents' presence would be necessary. The present restriction on the press was ordered by Governor Smith.

BUYS SAFE, GETS 2-YEAR TERM

Haverhill, June 29.—Charles Rosengard, a real estate operator, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction in district court today on a charge of larceny. He was charged with buying a safe from Maurice Fitzgerald for $2,000, which contained telephone keys valued at $1,250, having had a key expert secretly open it.

"Upon the pretense of having the ownership of the safe transferred," was charged he had Fitzgerald sign papers which in reality transferred the stock. He appealed.

THAYER WEDDED TO MRS. PRINCE AT HER HOME

Former Boston banker, now of New York and Paris, and Elizabeth Harding Prince of Boston, both of whom were divorced in Paris from former mates three months ago, were married in Boston today.

The marriage took place at the bride's home at No. 371 Beacon street at 11 o'clock this morning by the Rev. Albert Peterson, pastor of the First Parish Unitarian Church, Brookline. He was a classmate at Harvard of the groom, class of '94.

The bride was given away by her father, W. P. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room in the presence of a few guests. After a wedding breakfast the couple left for New York by automobile, where they will make their residence at Mr. Thayer's home at No. 266 Park avenue. There will be no honeymoon other than the settling down in the Park avenue home.

The wedding of the couple, who shortly after their divorce abroad, were reported to have ignored the social stretch law and eloped, was unexpected despite the fact that it was known they were engaged.

Mr. Thayer appeared at the City Hall early today, was granted permission to waive the five-day law, received a marriage license, hopped into a waiting automobile, smiled broadly and vanished. The wedding was celebrated immediately.

OF DISTINGUISHED FAMILIES.

Both are of distinguished families. Their love for each other has been an open secret in two continents for months. Their divorce, the same day, in the French capital, caused a sensation. Both charged that their respective former mates had refused to live with them.

Mr. Prince is the daughter of William P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of the Boston District.

The bride was given as a twenty-five. She did not accompany Mr. Thayer to the marriage license bureau.

Mr. Thayer is forty-one years old. In filing out the legal marriage license form he wrote the following to questions:

CHARM IS HE.

A merchant born in Boston, his father was E. V. R. Thayer, also born in Boston, who married Susan Spruce of Lexington.

The bride's address was given as No. 371 Beacon street, Boston. She was born in Birmingham, Ala. Her father was born in Alabama and married Annabella Moore of Utah. Allocations were presented an application.

Between twenty-five and thirty soldiers were wounded. Several are expected to die.

The explosion occurred in military circles here as the German reply to the offering of the occupation regulations in the Belgian zone after the killing of two Belgian soldiers at Mael several days ago and thought to have been carried out by the same organization that arranged the explosion that killed two German men in the waiting zone of the Westphalian railway station this week.

The train, carrying 300 men on leave, left Duisburg shortly before 2 o'clock. The bomb exploded as the train was crossing the Rhine. It demolished the car and mortally injured the captain, guarding the bridge.

It was announced penalties will be applied by the authorities of occupation for the outrage.

WILL GIVE LIST OF LOCAL-LAF THEATRES

Participants in the Local LAF contest have been required to know where the Local LAF film is shown.

A list of the theatres is being prepared, and the Boston American hopes soon to be able to print it.

At present there are over thirty theatres in Greater Boston which show the film each week. The second of the Local LAF films will be shown during the week beginning Sunday.

Each week a new film is shown. The jokes, epigrams and nifties shown on these films—often each week—are selected from among those submitted to this newspaper, and 125 in prizes are awarded each week.

In addition, there is a prize of $1 awarded to the author of each joke printed in this column daily. To-day's winners are LINWOOD FULLAM, North Brookfield, Mass.

"Count to ten, Will, then you can go." "One, two, three, five, six, eight, nine, ten." "You slipped two numbers." "I know, but that's the way father counts." "Is your father an accountant?" "No, he runs a filling station and sells gasoline." Address your contributions to the Local LAF Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

U. S. INSISTS ON RUM SEIZURE

London, June 29 (A.P.).—Alfred W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, who arrived in England on the Atlantic, told newspaper men today the United States government had no intention of relaxing its attitude regarding confiscation of liquor on board liners.

Secretary Mellon reiterated his statement of last night that the United States government had never contemplated seizing foreign liquor-carrying ships or detaining their captains.

Mr. Mellon said he expected to see British government officials, but informally rather than officially.

"ENEMIES OF WOMEN" SETS NEW RECORD

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

A GOOD photoplay is much more than a fine picture well acted, or a good story agreeably presented—we have had these things many times and the result has been but little above commonplace. But a picture that gathers the finer elements of dramatic art and coordinates them with perfect photography, brilliant direction and luxurious settings, and then unfolds a wonderfully human story, has something dependable upon which to pin its faith and hope for public appreciation. "Enemies of Women," the Cosmopolitan production which moves Monday from Loew's State to the Orpheum theatre, is a photodrama that will go down in screen history as the clearest example of how a motion picture play should be made. The stirring war story by Vincente Blasco Ibanez that is reproduced in picture form easily fixes a new standard for film productions. There may be other great pictures in the making but none can possibly carry a more unmistakable mark of production luxury, skilled photography or brilliance of acting than that revealed in "Enemies of Women."

BRAVES FIELD NIGHT SHOW ENLARGED

Braves Field again blithely into the second week of its night show with the "Four Horsemen," Rex Ingram's million dollar production, being screened tomorrow night, and then the full program goes on Monday night with the first showing of the "Man Next Door," by Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon," "North of 36," "The Mississippi Bubble" and "34th Street."

Alfred Truitt, leader of the Empire band, and special pupil and protégé of Paul Whiteman, has some new numbers for the dancing, which will be regulated to last two hours. It took no prophet to discover that the dancing surface, plus the music, has made an immense appeal to the crowd.

Fireworks and at least one top notch vaudeville act will be part of the night program. It is the Marcus Loew and Fuchs-Matthewson plan to give their patrons every last bit of service in the way of entertainment. The grand stand seats 1,000 and it is the aim of this troupe to fill the grandstand several times a week, and have it comfortably full on other nights.

"The Man Next Door" is a Vitaphone feature and a worthy Hays entry. Contrary to general belief though it is not a youngster, it began to write late in life, or rather when he was drawing close to the grave. He is a veteran of nation-wide note as a dancing, exploring, big game hunter and a genuine nature lover.

Marye Lowe was the first main in his big organization who maintained sturdily and steadily that the Braves Field night show idea was sound and worthy. The crowds at the field, the big game and the nature, than expected. They showed all sorts of appreciation. There was no reason for impatience, anyhow. It was the well known Loew ability to make a rare and brilliant success of what so many practical showmen thought was a new but futile midsummer night's dream.

"The Gloria's" dancing team in George M. Cohan's musical production "The Four Horsemen" at the Tremont, are brother and sister. Adelaide and Albert D. Novakoff. Their father was a Cossack leader, their mother a professional lion tamer. Adelaide and Albert were born in Vichy, France, and London, England, respectively.

Under the mother's guidance, the brother and sister formed a dancing troupe. Under the father's guidance, the brother and sister formed a dancing troupe. Under the father's guidance, the brother and sister formed a dancing troupe.

They have witnessed events, massacres, wars of fire and jungle but they have been in the center of excitement. Under the father's guidance, the brother and sister formed a dancing troupe.

Lionel Barrymore with their work in the photoplay production.

"Enemies of Women" is perhaps the most lavishly produced picture of the decade with settings by Joseph Urban that are gorgeous in their beauty. Nothing is so recent but shown equals in splendor the interior sets planned and built by Mr. Urban, while the exterior showing Monte Carlo and Paris fill the eye with their amazing beauty.

Equipped with splendid sound revealed.

If the movie audience of "Enemies of Women" bring something new and screen, the telling of its story by the special Cosmopolitan team adds its own alluring charm to the picture.

Featured in the company are Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens, who make excellent use of themselves and their art in the difficult task laid out for them.

As the almost Anna Rubens, Fritha Laidloff, who is finally brought back to human existence in the tragedy of the great war, Mr. Barrymore makes new humor. His flawless performance, which grips and thrills with its artistic intensity, is rivaled by that of Miss Rubens, as the flighty Alicia, whose pursuit of the prince forms the main theme of the story.

Miss Rubens wears gorgeous raiment.

There are few, if any, more beautiful women in the screen world than Miss Rubens and in "Enemies of Women" she is made radiant by raiment that are yet to be matched in richness of design. Others in the cast are Pedro de Cordoba, Gladys Hulette, and William Collier, Jr., and the group of Ziegfeld and Greynard.

Age beauties are counted to give color to the picture, and in the posing position, it is under the direct in location detail the entire "Enemies of Women" company was taken to Europe for six months, where the important scenes were filmed.

As a drama of human regeneration, "Enemies of Women" carries an impressive message. From the opening scene the spectator is uplifted with the unusual power of story and its presentation. It has all the punch of a super-adventure without its excesses. There is action every where—action that has a solid reason for being in the story. Barrymore has personal feeling and makes the screen conscious of some of our best known stardom stars both in movement of each and presentation.

Coordinate with the story—artistic and intelligently.

"Enemies of Women" brings a new and better art to the screen and shows greater luxury of production than the film drama has ever known.

PLAYS THAT REMAIN

"The Covered Wagon" at the Majestic. (Seventh week.) A photographic reproduction of the famous Oregon Trail, with its thrills, romances and tragedies made life-like by fine acting and excellent photography. A picture that will make every American who sees it proud of his country.

"The Rise of Rosie O'Reilly" at the Tremont. (Seventh week.) A song and dance comedy by George M. Cohan that outshines any of his preceding efforts along the line of Summer entertainment. There is more dancing than comedy only because there are more dancers than comedians. However, there is plenty of both.

"Enemies of Women," moving from Loew's State to Orpheum. (Second week.) Spectacular picturization of Vincente Blasco Ibanez's famous war story. Production a marvel of scenic splendor; acted by brilliant cast headed by Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens.

Coming Events

The Ted Lewis Follies will be the first attraction of the new season in the shubert, opening Saturday, August 4th.

"Sally, Irene and Mary," which has been holding forth at the Casino in New York for ten months, will be the opening attraction at the Wilbur Theatre, beginning its engagement on Monday, July 30th.

"The Cat and the Canary," one of the best of last season's mystifying thrillers, will come to the Plymouth on Monday (later days), September 3rd.

"WHAT are you doing about?" inquired Mrs. A. as she sat at her typewriter, "that's all the good you'll do me. The only time you say home is on the evenings I happen to have Mrs. A. dabbling over here for hours."

"She knows a lot about finance," explained A. "Some of her tips have enabled me to put over some big business deals with other firms."

"I should think she would know about finance, with all the gold she's been doing," said Mrs. A. with a grin.

"Well, I would take you out one of these days, but you're so busy, I can't get a moment to spare. I'll let you know when I can get away for a few days. I'll let you know when I can get away for a few days. I'll let you know when I can get away for a few days."

AIN'T IT SO?

By L. W.

Then off you go to get a rest On your so-called vacation You're sure to meet some apt of pret.

Before you leave the station I assume the hoodoo has you marked For trouble by the dozen, and has the peace all about packed.

Along the road you'll find a lot of "Toms" in the long. Who will dress you to look. And when you hit that boarding place Where you had hoped for quiet The chatter on the vine-laid perch Brings you of a lot The bird who "hates himself" in there.

To break about his dog; The honest maid with frowny face To add you to her woe.

And never about the fire. The fire who makes you for a home When she's not washing dishes. But worst of all is that queer When that peaky apparition Who in the night looks in the door And grows "Tome on a fire."

Safety Last Dumb—what caused the big fire? Well—One of the girls hit a safety match on the fire extinguisher.

BELIEVE IT?

On February 29, 1923, a Boston girl was declared the winner of a beauty contest, but refused to take the prize because she thought that the decision was unfair.

On June 31, 1923, a Chicago character asked his sweetie if he might take her poodle for a walk in the park.

On September 31, 1923, a Baltimore more butcher announced that he would be glad to feed his customers dogs free of charge.

On November 31, 1923, a professor shot himself because he had forgotten about his wife's wedding anniversary.

On December 31, 1923, a Syracuse woman forfeited a $10,000 legacy rather than tell the judge her age.

On April 31, 1923, a Rochester girl decided to stop powdering her nose because her grandfather objected to it.

On June 30, 1923, the Pullman Company announced that any passenger who was unable to get a berth would be allowed to share the porter's bunk with him.

Cause and Effect Jack—Is this right about the Chinese eating bird's nests? John—Sure. Jack—Ah! Now I know why so many of them are pigeon-toed!

Newlywed Wails

By Nat N. Dorfman

WHEN they say some married folks don't sound it may mean the husband and the wife are not taking the money out of the trousers.

Funny thing, but a man can find a lot of good points in a woman he isn't married to, but the big point is that he isn't married to her.

A man in Milwaukee proposed fifty-six times to a girl before she finally accepted him, proving the truth of the old adage, "If you play with fire you'll get burnt."

If a benefactor was stranded on a desert island with ten women, it would be a paradise for him, but if he had his wife with him, it would be a hell.

No one seems to know how marriage began, but nearly any one can tell where a lot of them end.

A woman in Iowa asks a divorce from her husband because she charges he finds her poetry instead of food. Well, didn't she take him for better or for worse?

A lot of husbands got that share of home rule long before prohibition was ever thought of.

Marriage is a limited branch of medicine in this respect, you've got to take your bitter pill with a spoon.

Rome jealous girls claim their chimneys got such fine husbands through sheer luck, when the husband's own wife's own it through sheer hoariness.

It Seems That Old race horses can be made young by the Voronoff plan. What's the play some one's been doing for the bank-rolls made old by said horse?

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

IN San Francisco the other day a man was the wife for divorce because she suggested he should sing. She knew a button off the coat on his wedding day. They're both married now and she says she hasn't sewed it back on yet.

If her answer was the judge that the coat was so old there wasn't a place left on it to sew on the button.

He claims he hasn't got a pair of socks to his name that his feet don't leak out of.

He says if the holes got any bigger he'd have to put them on up over his legs and use them for garters.

He charges that all the buttons are off his shirt, too, and when he washes down the street holding it together everybody else knows him of hissing Napoleon.

THAT wife was also absent object to her husband getting a divorce but it isn't fair. He knew she couldn't sew. Imagine when he was coming for his head and her large buttons of his button.

THAT husband says he'll let his wife get the divorce if she'll promise to do the mending before the final decree is issued.

BUT the woman objects, saying that she can't very well take her sewing into the court room.

THAT trouble with a lot of women is that they spend too much time putting needles into places instead of running a few of them through their husbands' socks.

THEY like to turn on a crowd and dance, but there's just as much exercise in playing a needle machine.

YOU notice the whole thing out of it, you're just as tired when you get through.

WHEN you play a sewing machine you can use your husband's shirt for a crowd.

WOMEN ought to have their husbands' hands-to-thee stand off. No man likes to see a husband of that size fall through.

OF course this often comes from a man having a political nose. He can tell a man's nose from his more than nose because his wife always keeps it in the ground.

WHEN she looked about the condition of his hands, she had to be afraid that he wasn't a workaholic.

THAT judge told this man to look out of the window and close the door about the next day. The judge had to be glad to do it because he had order in the institution.

BUT he's getting on now-days that when you see a man with a nose like that, you know he's got a nose that's not a nose.

THAT judge told this man to look out of the window and close the door about the next day. The judge had to be glad to do it because he had order in the institution.

Remember the Time--

By Jack Casey

YER be playin' "Little 22" Go Seek?" It would be the first night on yer's bolton. If yer was playin' in the daytime, "First by night, last by day" or if it was in the night time an' the same thing happened, "Last by night, first by day."

Silver souvenir spoons was all the rap an' had engraved on their handles "Columbus Discover America" or "The Pilgrim Landing" or "Niagara Falls" or the busts of Ben Franklin, George Washington, or Bunker Hill Monument. An' it was all the spoons if yer went on a trip or visit to a big city to bring home a spoon to yer Ma or favorite Aunt. An' they'd put 'em in the cabinet in the dining room an' when visitors came, proudly lead 'em to it an' casually say: "Oh, did you see what John brought me from Washington?" or "Did I show you what Eddie brought me from New York?" an' then they'd proudly display the spoon, but somehow it would get old an' be forgotten an' next time yer'd see it it would be tarnished.

Paper weights was made representing the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument in Washington, an' other historic places an' had felt bottoms an' yer used 'em on yer desk or at home on the library table. Bookkeepers sat at high desks, their perch being a very high stool an' they'd cranked over great big books full of just the figures in red an' blue, the books havin' black or brown leather bindin' what would last for years an' years.

An' they used portraits for pen holders, the spoons gettin' discolored like they was brushed from so many old points in their vulnerable parts. Quarters still like to sing "The Old Folks at Home" "Sweet Adeline" an' sometimes at night after they had crawled into bed in the attic, some would pass by the house, home-sick beautiful an' yer'd get up on one elbow, listen attentively till it died away an' have the most romantic thoughts all the time only wishin' they'd stop under the window for a spell.

Yer Pa knew a man from England named Mr. Howard who was a good singer an' a nice man with lots of nice friends an' an' a bold one Christmas eve the most beautiful young English carol drifted up from the snow-blanketed street below called Linden street an' yer Pa said "It's Mr. Howard, he said they'd come" an' it was. An' it always impressed yuh what poetry and beauty those kind people had in their souls who would go out into the street after a hard day's work to sing to folks in honor of the birth in the man.

REMEMBER! TIL KAT YER DO

FOUL BALLS

The girl who takes you for a five-mile walk because she is fond of exercise.

The poker player who never draws cards unless he has a high pair.

Barbare who let water and soap run down the back of your neck while giving you a shampoo.

The girl who calls you up at 2:30 a. m. to ask you how you enjoyed the party last night.

The bird who gives you a drink of bad whiskey and then asks you if you could loan him ten dollars until pay day.

The chaplain who comes over and talks to you when you and your sweetie decide to all out a dance in a quiet corner.

FORBES

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

After the smoke has cleared away it will probably be found that the United States Steel Corporation and other important companies that actually offered money to employees are taking advantage of these violent dips in quotations to obtain the needed amount of stock at what discounts represent a bargain price.

The rest of the country usually complies with New York's lead, and the American people are no exception in this. For once New York's lead is not half as loud as in the stock market. Most of them can still understand the reason for all the recent fluctuations. Something has happened, and they are waiting on the horizon they expect, to throw them into hysterics.

In response to enquiries from various sources.

The delay in printing further replies by W. C. Durant in the fifty questions submitted to me is due to the fact that I have had to attend to other matters.

I brushed against John D. Ryan the other day and learned from him that the American people are not so stupid as it was taken over by Ansonia, has done the big business in the world.

Mr. Ryan is delighted with the way the new arrangement is working out.

"That ought to help Ansonia," I suggested. "I don't know," Mr. Ryan quickly replied, "but he has said and replied, 'You never can tell how the stock market is going to behave.'"

Quite a few have been learning the lesson at better cost during the last two weeks.

Saving is not a lost art even in extravagant New York. President Coolidge and Vice-President Charles G. Dawes of the Bowery Savings Bank are telling their friends with keen satisfaction of the record which the bank's new branch at 42nd street, Madison avenue, New York, has made. No fewer than 2,700 new accounts were opened and over $400,000 in new deposits were taken. This is declared to be a record not even approached by the other banks of the city. The Bowery Savings Bank is the only one in New York City that has opened a new branch since the closing of the bank. It was the only one in New York City that has opened a new branch since the closing of the bank.

Wall St. Gossip

PRICES of bituminous coal have risen about one per cent. in recent months. A new regulation has been passed to accomplish this. The public have been asked to contribute by Wall Street brokers, not members of the exchange, to help out of the market and other wrongdoing.

In the police men under way the Ford vehicle is raising about $100,000 for the building of a new station and the finest Democratic donor. Business and financial fact are being taken into account every day by American corporations.

Boston is shooting ahead with its education for youth to meet challenging problems.—J. J. Ford, school teacher.

To Make Men Work, Give Them HOPE

Hope or the Lack of Hope Is Better. Take H. S. Martin's Example

H. S. Martin, still young, had a wonderfully successful underwear business. He had agencies and factories in many places, big city offices and, most important, VERY ABLE AND LOYAL EMPLOYEES.

Mr. Martin married, and decided that he ought to go into the banking and bond business. He knew that a brain, like a horse, "divided against itself will not stand," or at least does not stand as well. It was banking OR underwear. He chose banking.

But he didn't sell his big business to the highest bidder. He turned it over to four employees who had been with him from twenty to thirty years each, told them to go on running it for themselves, pay him a fair price out of the profits, after which the whole thing would be theirs.

It isn't necessary to say that the four men, one becoming president, another vice-president, another treasurer, will make that business go, if he is in them and in it.

Those men will work, because they are working for AN OBJECT and for THEMSELVES. They see something ahead. Why wouldn't it be a good plan, at the start of a business, to say to the men on whom you rely, "When I get through, YOU shall have it. Build it up for me now, then go on building it for yourselves, when I am out." Wouldn't that make many a business go ten times as fast as it would otherwise?

There is a certain amount of work to be got out of a horse by putting the lash on him.

But no horse ever ran as fast under the lash as good horses have run in races MERELY FOR THE SAKE OF WINNING.

And when an object, a thing "worth getting," is held out, it should be held out sincerely and honestly. The plan of holding the bag of oats on a stick in front of a donkey's nose to make him keep going may be more or less effective with donkeys, but it isn't honest.

And vague promises as to what the owner will do "some of these days," if the boys do their share, "are often too much like the oats in front of the donkey's nose."

Men never work their best unless they are working for THEMSELVES. A salary may look big at first, but after awhile it looks like an insult. Let employers bear that in mind.

Many a man with a salary of twenty thousand dollars and no additional HOPE will put more concentrated business ability into having his automobile repaired economically than he would spend on his employer's business in a whole year.

In a shop where the sign read, "Fine Polish for Ladies and Gents," one young Italian was working ten times as hard as the others. He was perspiring; his jacket was wet through. The young woman that took the money was told, "You have a wonderfully good worker in that boy."

"Sure I have," she replied. "He's my boss. He owns the place."

"Owning the place," or owning a good interest in the place, or believing with good reason that there is hope of owning the place later on, makes men work.

Collecting Water Bills

Mayor's Campaign Reduces Amount Outstanding by More Than $230,000

Our attention has been called to the good work of the Curley administration in collecting outstanding water bills. Some opposition has been made to the vigorous efforts to collect these bills, but we think the people ought to know the situation before they decide against the collection crusade.

The Water Service Income Branch of the city government reports that an investigation made last summer revealed a very unusual condition in this branch. Favorable or gross negligence was evident in the department. Some users of water were allowed to use city water for years and run up a bill of thousands of dollars without paying a cent, until in 1917, three-quarters of a million dollars was owed to the city in unpaid and outstanding water bills, and in 1922 $1,300,000 was owed.

Mr. Curley's campaign to reduce these unpaid bills has resulted in the largest collection ever known in the history of the city. It reduced the outstanding amount of unpaid water bills by more than $230,000.

We presume that these collections have all been made without undue hardship to deserving delinquents. We have heard no complaints from those who were benighted unable to pay their water bill.

Under the circumstances the Mayor appears to be doing a thorough and good job.

Athletics Begin in the Brain

That's Why Records Are Broken

"There were giants in those days," but they were slow compared with modern men. Those that mourn the decadence of the human race should observe that athletic records for speed, running, jumping, swimming are constantly broken. A New York high school boy, Frank Hussey, only seventeen years old, equals the world's record for 100 yards, 9 and 3-5 seconds, equaled by only one other runner in the world's history so far as we know.

Experts believe that when young Hussey is full grown he will reduce his mark to 8 and 2-5 seconds.

Men's speed is definitely limited. You can find 1,000 to run a hundred yards in 10 seconds, or 150,000 to run in 10 1/2 seconds, but only two human beings, thus far, have been able to run 100 yards in 9 and 3-5 seconds. And to cut one fifth of a second off of the time would be a world's marvel.

It is natural that man should excel in muscular achievement as time passes. Every effort of the muscles is simply a reflection of an effort in the brain, a powerful order or stimulus given by the brain to the nerves and by them to the muscles. The brain improves steadily, therefore records are lowered, persistently.

ACTRESS' SON SEEKS LEASE

PARIS, June 30.—Maurice Bernhardt, only son of Sarah, is fighting the city of Paris for a prolongation of the late tragicienne's lease of the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre, which belongs to the city. Before Sarah died the council had determined to grant the prolongation. But when she died they acted on a clause in the contract which permitted them to cancel any prolongation granted which was interrupted by decease.

Artistic Paris is on the side of the son.

Loafers on Common

I read about steady working United States sailors being chased from Boston Common for no reason at all. It would be far better to chase the civilians who loaf around and insult girls and women. I saw a married man, the father of four children, on the Common four days in succession, flirting with anyone who happened to come his way. His family are in want, and he is asleep in the grass most of the time or holding down a seat, making a public nuisance of himself. That is the kind of a man to drive from the Common. In the West the police arrest him and question them, offer them jobs, and if they refuse to work put them away. Let the government service men stretch

Fashions and Old Fads

It is amusing to hear the blue-nosed fave about present-day fashions when the sensible and well-read person knows that all such fashions are but the revival of old fads. The bobbed hair, for instance, the hoop-skirt, mutton leg sleeves, bead trimmings, etc. They come in vogue every year or so, and primarily because those who dictate styles run out of ideas. But, as in ages past, the furies are with us. V. R.

WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF WISE MEN

POVERTY is no shame, but being ashamed of it is. It is impossible for a man who attempts many things to do them all equally well. The resolution to avoid an evil is seldom framed till the evil is so far advanced as to make avoidance impossible. The man who holds the ladder at the bottom is frequently of more service than the man at the top.

Too Weak to Work

Editor Helping Hand: I am in very poor health. I have heart trouble and anemia and bronchial asthma. I have no strength and can work just enough to get a little food. I have no one to help me, and the doctor won't let me walk much, though my heart is so bad I cough up blood. I would appreciate any help, and I need it. I have practically no clothing. Anything 36 or 38, that I could make over would be appreciated, or shoes size 4 1/2. My husband is serving time for highway in New Cambridge. M. M. C.

Offers Baby Things

Editor Helping Hand: I have some baby things, also a thin dress for small woman or girl, size about 34, and a pair of lady's shoes, size about 40. MRS. H. M. D.

Thank you. You have been the address of Mrs. M. H., who will be very grateful for the baby clothes, and the address of M. D., who needs the dress and shoes.

Has Injured Leg

Editor Helping Hand: Seeing what wonderful work your Helping Hand is doing for the poor people, I thought I would write to you about a poor family who live near me. I go over to help her with the housework, but I am poor myself and cannot get her any clothes. Her leg was hurt by a fall down stairs. She has four children, who lost their father two years ago, and now she barely gets enough to eat. There has never been anything done for her leg. The little girls and herself are badly in need of clothes. She takes size 40 or 50 and size 5 shoes. Her girls are thirteen and fourteen and five and seven. She cannot get any more money for non-payment of rent. MRS. J. H.

Needs Clothes

Editor Helping Hand: I am Mrs. J. T. S., who applied some time ago for underclothes for my husband and two little boys four years old. Mrs. J. C. D. sent three lovely pairs of underclothes to my husband and two pairs of socks, and they were very welcome indeed, as he had neither shoes nor socks. I am enclosing a clipping offering clothes, signed Mrs. S. D. I have five feet six inches. I have just one under-shirt, which I bought at the town store. I would be very grateful for the things she mentions. Her address has been sent you.

Offers Clothing

Editor Helping Hand: I have some clothing, mink or leather, size 34 to 36. I would be glad to give to some deserving person. Would like to have them call. H. B. L.

Baby Needs Care

Editor Helping Hand: Could you put me in touch with a girl fifteen or sixteen who would be willing to help care for a baby at the home of the mother? I would be willing to pay a small salary besides her board. MRS. E. C. H.

Would Help to Sew

Editor Helping Hand: I wonder if I could help any one sewing, either for themselves or for the children? I don't waste much to do and would be glad to help some one that way. M. E. S.

Would Make Over Clothes

Editor Helping Hand: I wonder if someone has any winter underwear I could have made over for my girls, twenty months and four years? I would like to make it up during the summer. Owing to a little bad luck, we got into debt, but Hubby has steady work now and can get out in time, but on small wages we cannot buy many clothes and get new ones. But I don't want to take anything that anybody else needs more than I. If I could Editor Helping Hand: I am a young married girl who has become a mother. My husband has been in the hospital for the last two months, and is unable to work, and of course, I can't go out to work. If some kind reader had some baby clothes I would be very grateful. MRS. H. S.

Under Doctor's Care

Editor Helping Hand: I want to thank the Boston American for its good work. Also to thank the one who sent things to help me. I am very much grateful for all that has sent me. And K. O. S.

IF TURTLES COULD TALK, WHAT TALES WE'D HEAR!

By Herbert Kaufman

THE distance between New York and Newport is reduced to eighty minutes. How Manhattan's suburbs do spread!

Before President Harding is back from Alaska the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans will be less than a day apart.

Time's wearing propellers instead of wings. But not everywhere. A dispatch filed one hundred and forty-five years ago has just been delivered by original bearer.

In 1778 Captain James Cook, born in a laborer's hotel—self-trained—greatest of explorers, scratched a message on the back of a South Sea turtle, and the leisurely creature has been carrying it ever since.

What a tale could be told if science might only provide a drug to make animals talk as criminals are now forced to confess their secrets.

History would especially like to interview this living witness of so many centuries.

Greatest of All Navigators

Polynesia, his stamping ground, has told us the least of itself. The laconic diaries and vague log books of early adventurers under the Southern Cross are sadly lacking in observation and record.

Easter Island, with its stone monuments, brought from Heaven knows where, and no one knows when—extraordinarily reminiscent of the equally mysterious plinths at Stonehenge—obdurately refuses to discuss its past.

Ethnology vainly seeks the origin of man-eating tribes without memory of white folk until Cook's cocklesheils first entered their lagoons.

England owes this man Australia and probably Canada. Wolfe could never have made his successful expedition against Quebec if Cook had not correctly charted the St. Lawrence Channel.

His voyages ranged from the Arctic Ocean to the Solomons. He circumnavigated New Zealand. His courageous prow led the way 'round the Cape of Good Hope, muzzled New South Wales, largely determined the limits of the Antarctic continent, were washed by Narragansett breakers, Greenland surf and Tahiti spume.

Navigators are in his eternal debt for an anti-seurvy diet. And he died on sands where the American flag now floats—clubbed to death on a Hawaii beach.

Wheat on the Price Toboggan

You can lift your telephone and talk directly to that same Hawaii, and before long may leave your office on Friday night, bathe at Waikiki, and be back to business bright and early Monday morning.

Mail order houses daily ship more goods to Honolulu than trading vessels annually shod there when Grant was a West Pointer.

Incidentally, mail order sales were 39 per cent. higher this May than last and department stores handled 10 per cent. more goods than in 1922.

The sum total of local factory output exceeds entire world production when Cook went roaming the universe. Merchants and manufacturers behold no limit to their markets and see no clouds on prosperity's horizon.

But farmers aren't so happy. The predicted slump in agricultural prices has arrived.

Chicago forecasts dollar wheat and expects to buy it for even less.

The East grows rich as the West grows poor. The sun isn't shining for all.

Chanticleer Would Make Terms

Germany plunges further into the abyss. Cuno's plan to halt dealings in foreign exchange, instead of improving the situation, creates a panic.

People are willing to trade paper money for any kind of security. Yesterday saw a dollar buy 153,000 marks, once worth nearly $40,000.

France isn't pleased at Great Britain's increased aeroplane budgets.

Paris newspapers ask if England regards her present ally as a possible enemy.

Poincare is ready to call a recess on construction if existing air strengths establish the risk of disarmament.

Catch any European nation relinquishing precious advantages over neighboring powers.

Depend upon it, we alone will be caught napping by the next war.

Some American Savages

But history and economics can't monopolize the news. Crime and injustice insist upon their pounds of space.

Mrs. Buzzi, contrary to expectations, is convicted of murder in the first degree. Juries are apparently getting over their squeamishness in sending women to the chair. Some day they'll even dare to send negligent corporation heads to jail. Brooklyn elevated officials would be a good lot to start with.

Florida isn't in such a hurry to avenge Martin Fabert. Highbottom's trial drags along. Cross-examination can't shake the testimony of witnesses who counted strokes and watched his victim die from the scourging.

Alabama, too, has her convict labor scandal. The State has been earning over $800,000 of blood money yearly through the lease of prisoners to coal mining companies.

Legislation, some while ago, uprooted the whipping-post, but mentioned nothing of whips and pieces of iron pipe.

Prominent citizens, leading a revolt against legalized traffic in human beings, call upon the Governor to cancel an abominable partnership between greed and politics, and meanwhile bring to light dozens of cases paralleling the Tabert outrage.

The savages who cracked Cook's skull at least made no pretense of civilization.
